MAJOR FRANK B. CLAY DIES IN WASHINGTON

Son of Former U. S. Senator Dies at Walter Reed Hospital Sunday.

Marletta, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Major Frank Butler Clay, of the regular army, whose home was formerly in Marietta, died today at Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., according to telegraphic advice received by relatives in Marietta.

Major Clay was 31 years of age at the time of his death. He was born in Marietta and attended the public schools, the University of Georgia, and later entered West Point. He was a son of the late United States Senator Clay from Georgia.

After graduating from West Point in 1911, Major Clay was stationed for three years in the Philippine Islands. During the war he was stationed for a while at Camp Gordon with rank of colonel. He was at the University of Georgia Major Clay was very prominent in athletics, playing on both the football and baseball teams.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. S. Clay; three brothers, H. A. S. Jr., and Captain Richard Clay, of the regular army, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Everett.

MARSHAL FOCH PLANNING VISIT TO UNITED STATES

Metz, August 22.—Marshal Foch will visit the United States when the European situation permits him to take a vacation of the required length. The marshal made this statement to Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty, of the American Knights of Columbus, at the banquet last night at which covers were laid for one thousand.

Mr. Flaherty had extended a formal invitation to the marshal on behalf of the knights.

Marshal Foch was the principal speaker at the banquet, which was attended by burgomasters of thirty Louisiana cities and towns and Minister of Justice L'Hopital. Captain Andre Fardieu, one of the speakers, caused some surprise when he said: "You may not know that France provided with 80 per cent of your airplanes, 60 per cent of your tanks, 50 per cent of your armor, and 50 per cent of your war material. When you return to America and hear the opinion expressed that France is parsimonious, remember that France paid 4,500,000,000 francs in taxes in 1914 and 20,000,000,000 francs this year."

When I talked with him he was tired, having made twelve speeches during the day, and was about to take a bath, which he said constant travel had made absolutely vital. He took sufficient time off from the latter, however, to predict that the democrats would carry at least three of the four western states, had a good chance in three others, a somewhat less chance in two others, and would carry seven of them, would sweep the country.

He declared Governor Harding "out of his shell" because he is shrinking from coming into the open and telling western folk what he is trying to accomplish.

The secret of making an audience in the west "Coxs sure," said Roosevelt, "is simply to tell the truth. Harding is a very nice gentleman. There is nothing a westerner desires more than a very nice gentleman."

Roosevelt Makes Tremendous Hit Throughout West

He Has a Personality and Frankness That People Out There Like, Says Vanderbilt — "Young Teddy's" Attitude.

BY CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR. Special Correspondence of the United Press.

(Copyright by United Press.) Portland, Ore., August 22.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, the democratic candidate for vice president, gave me a story, which reminded me of another. Here is his, given in reply to my question of what he thought of the attitude of "Young Teddy" Roosevelt.

"Ted may be right," he said seriously. "I'm not sure. His greatest fault is that he is neither one thing nor another. I wonder whether of us he will kill off politically."

The candidate's observation was made at the close of an interview and the story it brought to my mind was an incident which occurred in Taft's administration—a time, I believe, when Roosevelt and Taft were estranged.

It was on the occasion of Ambassador Reid's funeral. The cathedral was lined with mourners and the casket of the former ambassador was resting in the choir loft. President Taft and his entourage were seated in the first pew on the right. Ex-President Roosevelt, with his wife, his daughter and his sister, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, were in Mrs. Reid's pew on the left. Just as the casket was being lifted by the pallbearers, President Taft and his staff made a move as if to leave the church. There was some hesitancy as to whether the casket or the presidential procession should be first to pass out. Colonel Roosevelt suddenly turned to his sister and whispered:

"Corinne, dear, this is the first time I've ever heard of hesitation about precedence of corpses."

Franklin Roosevelt's story made me think perhaps he and "Young Teddy" might be feeling somewhat the same as the colonel did.

Gaining Strength for Party.

TEXAS PARTY MAKING COTTON MILL SURVEY

Prominent Business Men of Waco Pass Through Atlanta Sunday.

Traveling 3,000 miles from central Texas to the Carolinas, a party of business men of Waco, Texas, were in Atlanta last night, leaving before midnight for the Piedmont region, where they will make a survey of the cotton mills, preliminary to the establishment of a textile center in Waco.

It was predicted by members of the party last night that the result of their journey to the textile district would revolutionize the cotton industry in Texas.

"The erection of a number of cotton mills in Waco, the center of the largest cotton-growing area in the world, would do away with one of the greatest economic wastes of the world today," one H. P. Leland, one of the members of the party, said.

It would eliminate the vast expense of sending the raw product to New England and then having it shipped back to us in the finished product," he added.

The system the Texans have in mind, according to another member, is that recommended by the cotton conference in New Orleans last fall, and which will eventually do away with the many middle men between the farmer and the finished product.

The party will reach Greenville, S. C., early Monday morning, and after spending a day there, they will go to Spartanburg, Gastonia, Charlotte and Winston-Salem, concluding the investigations Friday.

The members of the party, all of Waco, and heads of as many business institutions in that city, are: G. M. Peland, H. L. Williams, W. W. Marshall, J. L. Powers, W. G. Lacey, H. J. Mistrof, J. F. Massey, C. H. Ruebeck, J. W. N. Sleeper, W. V. Crawford, George McLendon, J. M. Mills, W. D. Barton, W. H. McCullough, J. Bush, W. L. Edmond, H. E. Chiles, Harold Shear, E. A. SUCCESSFUL PLANTER SELLS OUT IN ALABAMA

Anniston, Ala., August 22.—(Special.)—Decision of H. L. Turner, Jr., to dispose of his plantation in the Choctawhatchee valley has aroused much interest throughout this section. Mr. Turner, following his graduation from Princeton university eight years ago, bought a tract of land in the northern part of the county and at once entered upon the pursuit of agriculture as a life work. In 1913 he bought his present plantation, adding to what was known as the Bush farm and the adjacent lands, until he had 510 acres under cultivation.

Mixing scientific methods with practical farm work, Mr. Turner became one of the most successful farmers in north Alabama, demonstrating that a young man raised in a town was not barred by training or environment from making a success as a farmer. Announcement is made by Mr. Turner that he will not quit farming. He likes it and will continue to lead the life of a farmer.

The school is in a state and school having complied with all the conditions that are required to get this aid.

G. O. P. IS DRIVING FOR SEATE SEATS

Candidates to Be Named This Week in Utah and Idaho—League Issue in Borah's State.

BY MARK SULLIVAN. Washington, August 22.—The republicans are this week in the midst of making those senatorial nominations which, according to their plans, if they are successful, are to increase the republican preponderance in the senate from the present majority of two to a majority of eight or ten.

One of the seats which the republicans hope to win away from the democrats is that of John F. Nugent. In Idaho both parties will hold their state conventions tomorrow. The democrats will undoubtedly renominate Nugent and the republicans convention will select from some five or six candidates that one who would be most likely to make a successful fight against Nugent in November.

Whoever the republicans nominate, the opposition to Nugent is apparently to be based chiefly on the league of nations. Reports from Idaho say that Senator Borah, in the role of republican leader of the state, has already been diligently organizing the state and making speeches on this issue. Borah is by far the most important figure in the league opponents in the whole country, and Washington has little doubt of his being able to dominate his state.

Moyle May Oppose Smoot.

Even aside from this issue, Nugent was the most important figure in the league opponents in the whole country, and Washington has little doubt of his being able to dominate his state.

Another senatorial seat, decidedly one of the most important in the whole body, will be determined, so far as the two candidates are concerned, by the result of the election of the republicans of Idaho meet to nominate a successor to Senator Smoot. They will unquestionably name Smoot himself. On the following Monday the democrats of Idaho meet to name their candidate to run against Smoot. Here in Washington it is commonly assumed that the democratic nomination will go to James H. Moyle, who is at present in the senate as an assistant secretary of the treasury.

The contest between these two will be much more important in the country.

Smoot is without question one of the two or three leading republicans in the senate. His long service of eighteen years, coupled with the fact that he is an extraordinary hard worker, has given him such a command of the senate business that the republicans would feel a loss as a calamity at a time when they are hoping to take over the work of the government.

Made Clean Sweep.

The democrats base their hopes on the claim that within the last four years Idaho has become a democratic state. Senator Smoot is the only republican officeholder in the state. The democrats have the other senator and both the congressmen. They also have nearly all the judges and county officials.

The overturn of Utah in favor of Wilson in 1916 was a landslide. In 1912 Utah was one of the only two states the republicans carried. The other was Vermont. In 1916, however, the democrats carried Utah by 42,000 votes. Roosevelt, on the progressive ticket, 24,000, and Wilson 38,000. In 1916, Wilson got over 84,000 votes to Hughes' 54,000. It is the momentum of this extraordinary landslide that the democrats are counting on this year.

This Utah senatorial election will be watched by the country with extreme interest.

MERGER IS ARRANGED FOR OIL COMPANIES

New York, August 22.—Official announcement of the conclusion of negotiations for the merger of the International Petroleum Company, Limited, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the Tropical Oil Company, controlled by the Benedict-Trees-Treats-Crawley interests of Pittsburgh, a deal involving approximately $100,000,000 was made today.

By terms of the merger, it is planned to organize a new international petroleum company, limited, under the laws of Canada, with an authorized issue of at least 10,000,000 preferred shares, 98 per cent, and at least 7,118,133 common shares of no par value.

The Tropical company has outstanding approximately 1,575,000 shares, and the International has issued 2,065,500 shares of common and 100,000 shares of preferred.

For outstanding shares of both companies the new company will exchange its shares on the basis of 1,802,534 to the Tropical company in exchange for 1,575,000 shares of old Tropical stock. After setting aside sufficient common stock for the merger, the Tropical company will have 1,732,534 common shares, and the new company will have 1,732,534 common shares in exchange for each share of Tropical.

THOMASVILLE WOMEN ANXIOUS FOR BALLOT

Thomasville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Thomasville suffragists feel that it is up to them to celebrate their recent victory in Tennessee. They have not yet been able to decide upon exactly what sort of a celebration they should have. They are all anxious to vote at the coming elections, and think it a great hardship if they are not allowed to do so, as there will not be another presidential election coming on again in four years. It has been some consolation to be told that they may be allowed to vote in the municipal election here, as that will not come off until December, and the machine is planning to run for office then. It is already studying up as to how he can win the votes of the newly enfranchised citizens of the town.

The Board has established as minimum prices those set forth above.

The Board will entertain lump sum bids on the various types, sizes and classes of the vessels described above, provided the price offered shall not be lower than the said minimum price. The foregoing minimum prices are subject to a deduction for depreciation at the rate of six (6) per centum for the second year of the vessel's age, and five (5) per centum for every year thereafter to date of purchase. The Board at all times reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

When ships are taken "as is and where is," and whole amount due paid in cash, discount of 10% will be allowed.

In every case the Board will insist upon full and satisfactory evidence of the financial ability of the buyer to carry out his contract and meet his financial obligations as they become due. Proof as to the nationality of the purchaser in compliance with Merchant Marine Act, 1920, will also be insisted upon.

New Ship Sales Policy

The Congress of the United States has enacted and the President has approved, under date of June 5, 1920, the new Merchant Marine Act.

Under the provisions of this act the Shipping Board is charged with the duty of adopting and executing a ship sales policy that will in fact establish the merchant marine of the United States upon a sound operating and financial basis. Section 5 of the act provides:

"That in order to accomplish the declared purposes of this Act, and to carry out the policy declared in section 1 hereof, the board is authorized and directed to sell as soon as practicable, consistent with good business methods and the objects and purposes to be attained by this Act, at public or private competitive sale after appraisal and due advertisement, to persons who are citizens of the United States, except as provided in section 6 of this Act, all of the vessels referred to in section 4 of this Act or otherwise acquired by the board. Such sale shall be made at such prices and on such terms and conditions as the board may prescribe. But the completion of the payment of the purchase price and interest shall not be deferred more than fifteen years after the making of the contract of sale. The board in fixing or accepting the sale price of such vessels shall take into consideration the prevailing domestic and foreign market price of the available supply of, and the demand for, vessels, existing freight rates and prospects of their maintenance, the cost of constructing vessels of similar types under prevailing conditions, as well as the cost of the construction or purchase price of the vessels to be sold, and any other facts or conditions that would influence a prudent, solvent business man in the sale of similar vessels or property which he is not forced to sell. All sales made under the authority of this Act shall be subject to the limitations and restrictions of section 9 of the 'Shipping Act, 1916,' as amended."

The Shipping Board, after a careful survey of the current operating revenue, costs of operation, competitive conditions now existing and which will exist, financial and the general economic situation, offers to the public the following plan of ship sales:

10% of the purchase price in cash upon delivery of the vessel;
5% in 6 months thereafter;
5% in 12 months thereafter;
5% in 18 months thereafter;
5% in 24 months thereafter;

The balance of 70% in equal semi-annual installments over a period of ten years; deferred payments to carry interest at the rate of 5% per annum.

All revenues derived from operations are to be deposited in a controlled or supervised account, and the installments above provided for, except initial payment, may be paid therefrom.

The purchaser shall be permitted to take from said controlled account, after the payment of operating expenses and the payment of accrued installments of and interest on the purchase price, an amount not exceeding fifteen per centum (15%) on the paid-up installments of the purchase price as a dividend upon such investment, to be used free of control as the purchaser wishes.

Upon payment of fifty (50) per centum of the purchase price the buyer is to execute a preferred mortgage to the Board, and thereafter the operation of the vessel is released from the supervision and control of the Board, except as to maintaining berth and route.

The foregoing terms of sale are applicable only to new steel tonnage.

Upon application the Board will furnish the names, tonnage, and general specifications of the vessels for sale, and standard contract of sale.

Further information may be obtained by request sent to the Secretary of the Board.

Bids may be submitted for one or more vessels, or for any combination of vessels, and must be accompanied by certified check payable to the U. S. Shipping Board for 2 1/2% of amount of the bid. Bids should be submitted on the basis of purchase, "as is and where is."

Sealed bids on a lump sum basis will be received up to Tuesday, August 31, 1920. Bids will be opened September 1, 1920.

SEALED BIDS should be addressed to the Secretary of the UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD, WASHINGTON, D. C., and endorsed, "SEALED BID FOR STEAMSHIP (Name of Ship)" and "Do Not Open."

New Ship Sales Policy

The Congress of the United States has enacted and the President has approved, under date of June 5, 1920, the new Merchant Marine Act.

Under the provisions of this act the Shipping Board is charged with the duty of adopting and executing a ship sales policy that will in fact establish the merchant marine of the United States upon a sound operating and financial basis. Section 5 of the act provides:

"That in order to accomplish the declared purposes of this Act, and to carry out the policy declared in section 1 hereof, the board is authorized and directed to sell as soon as practicable, consistent with good business methods and the objects and purposes to be attained by this Act, at public or private competitive sale after appraisal and due advertisement, to persons who are citizens of the United States, except as provided in section 6 of this Act, all of the vessels referred to in section 4 of this Act or otherwise acquired by the board. Such sale shall be made at such prices and on such terms and conditions as the board may prescribe. But the completion of the payment of the purchase price and interest shall not be deferred more than fifteen years after the making of the contract of sale. The board in fixing or accepting the sale price of such vessels shall take into consideration the prevailing domestic and foreign market price of the available supply of, and the demand for, vessels, existing freight rates and prospects of their maintenance, the cost of constructing vessels of similar types under prevailing conditions, as well as the cost of the construction or purchase price of the vessels to be sold, and any other facts or conditions that would influence a prudent

PRESIDENT WILSON LENDING HIS AID TO COX CAMPAIGN

Endeavoring to Range Behind the Democratic Nominee the Enthusiasm and Money of All Democrats—McAdoo Is Also Helping.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, August 22.—President Wilson and William Gibbs McAdoo are now personally working to range behind Cox the enthusiasm and money of those democrats who were angry that McAdoo was not nominated at San Francisco, who disapproved the influence exerting Cox's nomination, and who had not approved the men selected by Cox to run his campaign.

Both enthusiasm and money are needed vitally now by the democrats if the impetus which Cox is personally giving his campaign is to be maintained. And it should not be surprising to see some changes, both in personnel and methods at campaign headquarters here.

For the first time, democratic leaders express confidence that Cox can win this fall. Therefore, speaking privately, of course, their doubts have been notable. Wilson's interest in the campaign is due to the fact that he naturally wants the league to win. To have it lose, would be construed by history as a repudiation of the foremost contribution he has made to world affairs during his tenure of office.

And it so happens that the president and, to a large extent, he alone, can effect a reconciliation between his own ardent supporters and those ardent partisans of Governor Cox.

Baruch Support Expected.
Take, for example, Bernard M. Baruch, whose personal and financial aid in democratic campaigns, since those of Bryan, have been a tremendous factor in democratic success. Baruch, to date, hasn't shown any tremendous interest in the campaign. Had McAdoo been nominated, Baruch would have been back of the movement with plenty of energy and resources. He might even have enthusiastically got behind Cox had it not been for a scurrilous pamphlet which was circulated at Frisco during the heat of the convention campaign, and which declared that if McAdoo were nominated, an investigation of his pre-convention campaign activities would be such as to run him off the country's political forum in two weeks. Since Baruch had been charged with being "the money behind McAdoo," Baruch probably—and naturally—took this pamphlet as one directed at him personally. Everybody else did, and he is, therefore, in the position of a man whose money at one stage of the campaign was held to be a liability rather than an asset. The national question confronting him, therefore, is why that same money is not still a liability to Cox's campaign.

So Baruch has held off, apparently enjoying the relaxation of making up his mind whether his money would help or hurt the present nominee. Also, and this, it may be assumed, figures in Baruch's attitude, Baruch is a dry as a bone. He wouldn't be likely to wax enthusiastic over a campaign which, unfortunately for Cox, had the leading "wet" in the country for its original motive power.

But above everything else, Baruch is a staunch admirer of and believer in President Wilson. He has like feelings toward McAdoo. McAdoo is going to get behind the Cox campaign personally in the form of stump speeches and already has contributed to the democratic campaign fund. McAdoo and the president in the past have been on the same side of the word. Baruch will not be a lonesome bit, it may be foretold.

Baruch is mentioned here merely as an example of how important the president's attitude is to the success of the campaign. The Wilson-McAdoo alliance, another Wilson-McAdoo alliance, has been at the disposal of the democratic party, is a second example. Many more could be named.

And their attitude today may be due to the fact that they are a long way from the result of a long campaign. Since Cox's nomination, they have been almost completely ignored by the press. The Wilson-McAdoo alliance, however, has been almost completely ignored by the press. The Wilson-McAdoo alliance, however, has been almost completely ignored by the press.

days, upon which the parties to the action agree. In some quarters it was believed a hearing would be held tomorrow or Tuesday.

Governors Put on Notice.
A message addressed last night to the governors of Vermont, Connecticut, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Delaware and South Carolina, declaring Tennessee had not ratified the amendment, was made public today by the Tennessee constitutional league, which is fighting ratification by this legislature on the ground that the state constitution inhibited this assembly from acting. The constitutional league is an organization of attorneys pledged to uphold the state constitution, and, according to Judge Joseph Higgins, of Nashville, its president, includes in its membership both suffragists and suffrage opponents. The message follows:

"Tennessee has not ratified the suffrage amendment. The resolution has not legally passed. The house has not reconsidered today was defeated by less than the legal quorum. The governor and other state officials have been enjoined against attempting to certify its ratification. No women will vote for a year and a half on account of Tennessee's action to the contrary. The injunction will be carried to the highest court. Any state official who attempts to certify will be attacked for contempt of court and Secretary Colby has already been warned that action in violation of the injunction is invalid under our laws.

"Secretary Colby will also be enjoined by amended bill filed by Charles S. Fairchild and the American Constitutional league at Washington.

"There is no reason for any standstill in other states on account of Tennessee's alleged action today and press reports assuming the ratification as completed are entirely misleading. Therefore, we earnestly ask you to make careful examination of ratification status before doing anything that might have a tendency to complicate the coming presidential election and election of governors, congressmen, legislators, etc., in many states."

Statement by Governor Roberts.
Governor Roberts, in a formal statement tonight declared he had been informed by Attorney General Frank M. Thompson that the action of the two houses of the legislature constituted a ratification of the amendment, and that he would countenance no act intended to nullify the ratification and the will of the majority by the minority, "either by flight and sham or by any other means."

It will be recalled that the ratification of the amendment, which was the official duty upon the part of the members, or otherwise.

The governor's statement was devoted almost entirely to a review of the suffrage situation in Tennessee as it concerned the legislature last year's granted partial suffrage for women. If it is recalled that the amendment included in the democratic platform and state platforms, he declared he was not at all concerned with the ratification of the amendment, and that he would countenance no act intended to nullify the ratification and the will of the majority by the minority, "either by flight and sham or by any other means."

"I shall very much regret if any conduct of mine shall forfeit the good will of any of my friends whose support and good wishes have received my appreciation," the statement concluded. "But I must first keep my own mind and conscience clear of my official duty to merit the true friendship and respect of all men, and this I shall continue to do."

CHECKING POLISH DRIVE

of Warsaw, between the Vistula and the city, and sending wireless appeals for help. Whether these troops realize that the Polish northern drive threatens their communications is uncertain from the intercepted messages which repeatedly have asked bolshevik headquarters for ammunition and supplies.

The bolshevik wireless apparently is not functioning properly, as headquarters repeatedly has requested information concerning the location of these troops, the rear of which is endangered by the Polish advances.

The vanguard of this red army has reached points about 100 kilometers south of Danzig, in what is known as "the corridor" and so near the Camp Grappe region around Graudenz that the French officers advised the American typhus expedition to move to Danzig. This the Americans did.

The American consulate, which moved from Warsaw to Graudenz when Warsaw was threatened, also has proceeded to Danzig on the advice of the French.

Warsaw Sees Russian Prisoners.
Warsaw today witnessed a sight which gave the population more confidence than any incident since the Polish counter offensive began. It was a procession of 3,000 prisoners who had been assembled at various parts of the front and marched to the rear across the Vistula river and into the city headed by a Polish guard, led by a mounted sergeant.

They came six bolshevik cannon drawn by skinny horses in rope harness. The horses were the size of American Indian ponies. The Russians and their equipment all were taken early Friday in a haul northward of Warsaw.

Sitting on an ammunition cart was a soviet nurse in uniform and wearing a head-piece which once had been white, but today had the color of khaki. The procession from the bridge wound its way into Warsaw's principal streets where traffic was blocked for half an hour. Great crowds of spectators lined the thoroughfares and seemingly thoroughly enjoyed the sight.

In addition to the many Polish soldiers who were acting as guards, there were also a number of bolshevik troops. Some of the peasants carried scythes and other huge clubs made from the limbs of oak trees cut along the road. There were nearly 100 men, some of whom were never, had rifles, owing to the shortage of arms, even for the troops at the front.

SAVANNAH WOMAN SAYS SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL

Savannah, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Herbert Medlock in a critical condition at the Park View Sanitarium here as a result of a mysterious shooting which occurred in an automobile on the Montgomery road, at White Bluff crossing, six miles from this city, at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Physicians state that the young man, who was shot, had no wounds, and there was no ill feeling between them.

The shooting, from best accounts, occurred when an early morning riding party stopped at a road house for soft drinks. Mrs. Durden declined to make a statement of the affair. It is said that two men, containing a dozen people, were present when the young man was shot. Medlock is a chauffeur. He was born and reared in Macon, served two years overseas in the war and has been in the business here since his return.

Mrs. Durden tonight made a voluntary statement of the shooting, which young Medlock was shot. She stated that in company with a number of members of her family and a party of friends visiting them from Charleston, they engaged two cars for a ride, and when the party stopped for soft drinks, she, seeing Medlock's pistol on the car seat, picked it up to shoot it. She says she fired several shots from near the road, and then the pistol was accidentally discharged, a ball entering the face of Medlock, near the mouth and penetrating to the extreme rear of the head. Medlock was barely alive late tonight.

FREIGHT RATES LOW, COMPARED TO PRICES

Transportation Cost Small, Compared to Prices of Necessities.

Washington, August 22.—It will take fewer pounds of cotton to pay the freight on a bale of cotton, fewer pounds of beef to pay the freight on a carload of live cattle, fewer pounds of sugar to pay the freight on a barrel of sugar, and fewer bushels of wheat to pay the freight on a carload of wheat after the recently advanced freight rates become effective than it took in October, 1916, according to a comparison of rates and prices issued by the Southern Railway system.

The prices for October, 1916, are taken from the July issue of the Commerce Monthly, published by the National Bank of Commerce of New York, and the rates quoted are between representative points in the south between which there is an actual movement of the commodities named.

In October, 1916, when middling cotton was selling on the New Orleans market at 16.51 cents per pound, the freight rate from Selma, Ala., to New Orleans was 45 cents per hundred pounds, or $2.25, the equivalent of 13.4 pounds of cotton, for a 500-pound bale. The new freight rate from Selma to New Orleans will be 25 cents per hundred pounds, or $2.50 for a 500-pound bale, but with cotton of the same grade selling for 35.25 cents per pound it will take only 10.6 pounds to pay the freight on the bale.

In October, 1916, the rate on live cattle from Meridian, Miss., to East St. Louis was 12 cents per hundred pounds, and choice steers were selling at $3.50 per hundred pounds, requiring 24 pounds to pay the freight on a car; the new rate will be 10 cents per car, but with choice steers selling at $3.50 per hundred pounds it will require only 6.8 pounds to pay the freight on a carload.

In October, 1916, when sugar was selling at 6.5 cents per pound, the freight rate from Savannah to Chattanooga per 100 pounds was 28 cents, the equivalent of 4.55 pounds of sugar. The new rate from Savannah to Chattanooga will be 44 cents, but with sugar selling at 15.25 cents per pound, it will require only 2.25 pounds to pay the freight on a hundred pounds of sugar.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA PLANS MEMORIAL DRIVE

Athens, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The general campaign committee of the University of Georgia war memorial fund campaign will hold a called meeting in the office of E. Warren Moore, in Atlanta, September 3, it has been announced by Harry Hodgson, general chairman.

The principal decision to be made is said to be the date on which the active campaign will be launched. The first number of the alumni bulletin was issued today to 4,000 alumni and friends of the university. Sixty counties have already been organized by county alumni societies in anticipation of the war memorial fund campaign. Other preliminary work is expected to be completed by November, it was stated from the office of Dr. R. Preston Brooks, alumni campaign secretary.

NEGRO'S DEAD BODY
FOUND AT WOODLAND
Woodland, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—While playing in some thick woods on the plantation of W. W. Collier, about one mile from here, some negro children found the body of a negro man who had been dead for several weeks. The body was that of John Andrews, 21 years old, who disappeared about six weeks ago. Coroner Carson and Sheriff Mantel were notified and, upon investigation, it was found that the Andrews negro was killed by someone hitting him back of the head with a large rock.

The Andrews negro was last seen in company of another negro, Clarence Copeland, 24 years old, who lives here. The Copeland negro was arrested by the Sheriff and County Policemen Ferguson and, after some grilling, confessed that he had killed Andrews, but claimed he had done so in self-defense. There is considerable evidence, however, that points to robbery as the motive for the deed.

A simple but effective device has been invented to enable purchasers to test the liveliness of tennis balls before taking them from stores.

DYNAMITE WRECKS MINE POWER HOUSE

Huntington, W. Va., August 22.—After a successful effort had been made early today to decoy the state police from Bordenland by a telephone message describing disorder at Raw, two miles distant, according to officials of that organization, the power house of the Bordenland Coal corporation's mine No. 2 was blown up by dynamite. There was no loss of life.

The Bordenland company mines have been operated continuously since the beginning of the present strike of coal miners in this region. It is said the dynamiting was accomplished by means of a case of the explosive being placed against one of the outer walls of the building and set off with an electric spark. Vigilance of the state police, it is believed, prevented more thorough preparation and consequent larger destruction. The switchboard was destroyed and the boiler room put temporarily out of commission. Damage is estimated at $5,000.

No fatalities resulted from the pitched battle between miners and mine guards at Mohawk, McBrill county, Saturday, according to reports reaching here. That the miners had anticipated a battle of this kind was indicated today by the discovery of a camp in the forest at Mohawk which had been provided with food.

Dorsey's Record Praised Before Calhoun Audience

Alaine Chambers Tells Gordon County Voters Dorsey Is Logical Choice of Democrats—Scores Watson and Smith.

Calhoun, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—A large crowd of Gordon county voters filling the courtroom in Calhoun were addressed by Hon. Alaine Chambers of Atlanta, last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a ringing appeal for support in the campaign of Governor Hugh M. Dorsey for the United States senate. The speaker was introduced by Rev. Charles S. Henderson, pastor of the Baptist church of Calhoun.

Mr. Chambers started his speech by reading from the keynote speech of Hon. Homer S. Cummings, delivered at the San Francisco convention, detailing the accomplishments of the democratic administration. When he had finished this outline, he asked if there were any demagogues who were not proud of these achievements. Every one appeared to be. He then read a paragraph from the resolutions offered in the state convention of May 18, 1920, endorsing this administration for the accomplishment of these very things, and stated to the audience that this resolution was voted down by a combination between the Watson and Smith delegates to that convention, although this very resolution gave credit to the democratic administration.

The speaker then called attention to the fact that Mr. Watson, who was in the convention of May 20, stated in reply to an assertion of General Walter Harris, that he was not proud of these achievements. He then read a paragraph from the resolutions offered in the state convention of May 18, 1920, endorsing this administration for the accomplishment of these very things, and stated to the audience that this resolution was voted down by a combination between the Watson and Smith delegates to that convention, although this very resolution gave credit to the democratic administration.

There was one delegate from Irwin county, now supporting Governor Dorsey, who, when his county was called in, cast his vote against the report of the committee, and announced that he was a democrat and could not sit by and see his party denounced.

Smith Declined Offer.

The speaker stated that until this year he had always supported Senator Smith and that he had never said a harsh word about him, and did not now intend to. He stated further that he was opposing Senator Smith not with a great deal of regret, but that after the primary of April, he went to Washington to see Senator Smith and urged him to help bring about an alignment between the Smith and Watson delegates taking their stand with the rest of the democracy of the nation in approving the splendid work of the party for the past seven years, which offer was rejected. Mr. Chambers also stated that the Palmer delegates later approved of his effort to the senator, and Senator Smith, stating that Mr. Chambers, later joined the Watson movement to denounce the administration, and in voting down resolutions, proving it.

He further called attention to the fact that the May convention proclaimed its unalterable opposition to the league of nations—reading the plank in the platform on that subject, as well as the further plank instructing the delegates to the national convention to support no man for president or vice president who did not stand for the platform adopted by that convention. He showed that Senator Smith and Mr. Watson were both pliant out of accord with the platform declaration, and the public utterances of the standard bearers of the democratic party in this campaign. He stated that election of either of these men would be construed by the people in close and doubtful states as a defeat for the party, and that incalculable harm would be done by the party by such action on the part of Georgia democrats.

Duty of Democrats.

He claimed that the democrats of Georgia owed more to the party than the mere election of senators, congressmen and presidential electors who were democrats. They owe it to the party, he said, to see to it that no man is elected in Georgia whose attitude is out of harmony with the national aspirations and principles of the party, so that the country may see the democracy of the south is militantly behind the national candidate.

He answered the claim of Senator Smith's friends that the senior senator is a man whose superior ability and experience makes his election a paramount duty, by showing that while the senator is both able and experienced, the men upon whose minds he has heretofore exercised great influence, such as Senators Gore of Oklahoma, Kirby of Arkansas and Shields of Tennessee, seen retired by their own constituents, and that Thomas of Colorado has seen what was coming and wisely stood aside and avoided the avalanche.

The speaker stated that the platform of the Georgia state convention had been in such low tones that the Atlanta Journal could not hear it and give the people the benefit of it.

He stated that the platform of the party adopted at San Francisco was in direct opposition to the declarations of the Georgia convention, and that the national platform had been prepared by a committee on which many of the democratic senators served, showing that they are out of accord with the views of Senator Smith. It was hardly to be thought that they would welcome into their midst a man who had friends and supporters willing to give credit for the great things the party had done for the country, but who was a denigrator of the actions of the party and its leaders.

The speaker contended that instead of Senator Smith's experience and ability being of benefit to the people and the party, his attitude had been so out of harmony with the thought and action of democracy that he would himself be much the same position relative to the democrats in the senate that La Follette occupied toward the republicans.

The speaker then turned his attention to the candidate, Mr. Watson. He stated that Mr. Watson admitted he was broken in health, and that it was impossible for him to render service as a senator even if he would consent to do so. He observed that it was not surprising that Mr. Watson had suffered from nervous breakdown when he allowed himself to think of the boys who were wearing stripes for following his advice by violating the law of the country.

When he has time to think of the suffering boys who have been brought upon the heads of many young men who might otherwise have been useful members of communities, it is no wonder that his nerves become so shattered that he has to drown his memories in stimulants, stated Mr. Chambers. The speaker then praised the draft act as a military measure, and the quick mobilization of the manpower of the nation, and also because it was a very democratic measure, which insured the proper carrying on of industry, and did not sacrifice the high-spirited young men of the country on the altar of need, and leave the men who could be spared with less loss to the progress and welfare of the world at home to become rich while their neighbors and friends were suffering in blood and giving up their lives to allow these slackers to continue in safety in their money-making enterprises.

Secures Watson.

He stated that a further reason this act was necessary and desirable was that thousands of foreigners were living in this country, particularly in the lawless cities, who were receiving the benefits and blessings of our institutions without making any sacrifice for them. These selective service act, he stated, put these men in line with the rest of the professional man and the clerk, thereby insuring fairness and equality. He stated that the act was a military measure, and this act he put himself out of harmony with democratic principles.

The speaker then took up the career of Governor Dorsey and showed that he was a man of ability and character—thoroughly independent and fearless and capable of doing his duty even against great pressure. He stated he had heard of two criticisms directed at Governor Dorsey, both since he had been a candidate for the senate. One was that he was a man of no more than average ability, and the other was that he was a man of no more than average courage. He stated that the criticism of his ability was a distortion of the facts, and that the criticism of his courage was a distortion of the facts. He stated that the criticism of his ability was a distortion of the facts, and that the criticism of his courage was a distortion of the facts.

The other charge was that Governor Dorsey had vetoed a measure which was passed by the legislature exempting from taxation certain bequests left by the late Albert Steiner to the hospital for Crippled Children, operated by the Scottish Rite Masons, near Atlanta, and to the Grady hospital. He stated that Governor Dorsey believed this act unconstitutional and acted accordingly. He added that every one, he had no doubt, regretted that the Crippled Children's home was offered in any part of the money for its support, and that a citizen of Atlanta, he personally regretted that the Grady hospital would also lose a few thousand dollars. However, he stated, in justice to all the entire facts should be made known.

Both items in the case were covered in the same act, he claimed, and the governor could not veto one and approve the other. If the Atlanta Journal's figures were correct, and the speaker stated they were, the approval of this bill would take from the state a sum of $25,000 and give it to the city of Atlanta, because the Grady hospital is supported entirely by the municipality, and now by the state. He stated that if any one outside of the city of Atlanta and the county of Fulton is tried there it is without the knowledge of the authorities of the hospital. He further stated that the action of Governor Dorsey was a distortion of the facts, and that the criticism of his courage was a distortion of the facts.

WOMEN OF GEORGIA ENTITLED TO VOTE

This Is Belief of Senator Fernor Barrett, Chairman of Subcommittee, He Writes J. J. Flynt.

Toccoa, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The first issue of the Georgia Journal Record, a new publication authorized as official organ of the University of Georgia Alumni Association, is just off the press and has been mailed to more than 4,000 alumni and friends of the University of Georgia.

The first edition of The Record is devoted almost exclusively to the million-dollar war memorial fund campaign of the University of Georgia, which has been carried in full the alumni day oration of General Walter A. Harris, of Macon, which has been characterized as the "keynote speech" of the University's campaign.

The condition of the university is even worse today than when General Harris delivered his address because of the action of the lower house of the general assembly in tabling all resolutions relating to the memorial fund campaign, which was called a committee of the senate in Atlanta September 4, to consider the situation and to report on the beginning of the active campaign.

The Record carries a history of the war memorial fund movement from its inception at a luncheon of the alumni in April to the present time, and the list of subscribers, totaling $112,225, made as a start at the alumni luncheon of September 15, during commencement week. The largest individual subscriptions were of $5,000 each by Harold Hirsch of Atlanta; B. P. O'Neal, of Macon, and S. B. Yow, of Lavonia.

NO COURT ACTION EXPECTED IN CASE OF JOHN WELCH

Athens, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—It is considered certain here now that no court action will be taken in clearing up the financial difficulties of John Welch, prominent cotton factor who is reported to own nearly half a million dollars in recent breaks in the cotton market.

Mr. Welch's financial difficulties first became known early in the year. C. W. Crook was placed in charge of his affairs with power of attorney, and he has not yet completed his work, but that as soon as they did a detailed statement of affairs would be made.

Assurances that Mr. Welch would not enter bankruptcy proceedings, and that all who hold his warehouse receipts or other obligations would receive dollar for dollar on his indebtedness are made from reliable sources.

Former Legislator Bound Over on Liquor Charge Near Rome

Rome, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—As the result of raids made here Friday by federal prohibition officers on the local whiskey trade, eight persons were bound over Saturday to the November term of the United States court by Commissioner John Pringle. Bonds were fixed in each case at $1,000.

A. W. Frazier, a local physician and former member of the legislature from this county, was arrested here, and is a member of one of this county's leading families.

Officer Allison, of the federal detective force, called at the home of a negro named W. H. Brown, near Rome, and in the discussion that followed between the officer and the negro, Brown was shot by Allison, and is in a serious condition at a local hospital.

BIG PICNIC IS HELD BY RAIL EMPLOYEES

Cordele, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Large crowds of visitors came here last Thursday to the annual picnic of the employees of the Georgia Southern and Florida railroads at Macon to Valdosta. Local citizens met visitors and took them out to the school auditorium, where the public exercises were held. Among those on the program were Mayor Max E. Land, address of welcome; response, Charles E. E. Patten, Jr.; Medden, A. J. Smith and others.

The address was interspersed with music furnished by the Valdosta and Cordele bands.

The basket and barbecue dinner followed the exercises in the auditorium. In the afternoon athletic contests were held. The dance at the Swanee hotel was a pleasant one. Two ball games in the afternoon, both won by Cordele, marked the close of an ideal day.

TWO MEN WOUNDED IN MACON AFFRAY

Macon, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Two men were wounded here tonight by Patrolman James B. Roberts.

who claims he shot in self defense, and alleges that St. Clair had drawn a pistol on him and had snatched it. The same bullet that passed through St. Clair's head entered the arm of Bridges Jordan, son of C. E. Jordan, former city military inspector, causing a flesh wound. At the hospital late tonight St. Clair's recovery was doubtful.

The shooting followed the giving of an order to St. Clair by the patrolman to stop driving an automobile, Roberts alleging St. Clair was intoxicated.

Winston-Salem, N. C., August 22. Chief of Police Matthews, of Walnut Cove, N. C., and Walter Martin, of Madison, are dead and a negro whose name was unknown is seriously wounded as the result of a battle in the road one mile north of Walnut Cove between a sheriff's posse and three Madison, N. C., escaping prisoners late this afternoon.

The shooting was the result of a row at a carnival dance hall when the negro insisted on dancing with white show girls. A disturbance was created and the Madison men, including Martin, Jack Hawkins and the negro were placed under arrest. Enroute to the mayor's office, the car was stopped and fled in a waiting automobile.

Chief Matthews formed one of a posse summoned to pursue the fleeing prisoners and they were overtaken a mile north of Walnut Cove. A summons to surrender met with a fusillade and Matthews was shot through the body. Crumpled in his seat he shot and killed Walter Martin while Jack Hawkins and the negro escaped. The negro was trailed for a couple of miles by bloodhounds, was lost in a swamp and bloodhounds have been ordered to close search, as the latter was captured and lodged in Danbury jail for safekeeping.

The same bullet that passed through St. Clair's head entered the arm of Bridges Jordan, son of C. E. Jordan, former city military inspector, causing a flesh wound. The shooting followed the giving of an order to St. Clair by the patrolman to stop driving an automobile, Roberts alleging St. Clair was intoxicated.

Faithfully yours,

Winston-Salem, N. C., August 22. Chief of Police Matthews, of Walnut Cove, N. C., and Walter Martin, of Madison, are dead and a negro whose name was unknown is seriously wounded as the result of a battle in the road one mile north of Walnut Cove between a sheriff's posse and three Madison, N. C., escaping prisoners late this afternoon.

The shooting was the result of a row at a carnival dance hall when the negro insisted on dancing with white show girls. A disturbance was created and the Madison men, including Martin, Jack Hawkins and the negro were placed under arrest. Enroute to the mayor's office, the car was stopped and fled in a waiting automobile.

Chief Matthews formed one of a posse summoned to pursue the fleeing prisoners and they were overtaken a mile north of Walnut Cove. A summons to surrender met with a fusillade and Matthews was shot through the body. Crumpled in his seat he shot and killed Walter Martin while Jack Hawkins and the negro escaped. The negro was trailed for a couple of miles by bloodhounds, was lost in a swamp and bloodhounds have been ordered to close search, as the latter was captured and lodged in Danbury jail for safekeeping.

FRENCH GARRISON RALLIES AT ADANA

Paris, August 22.—The French garrison at Adana, Asia Minor, which had been besieged for two months, made a rally Friday, and according to the foreign office, has now virtually been relieved.

Eighteen American relief workers were with the garrison. The foreign office says that the garrison badly defeated the besiegers and that the situation no longer is critical.

San Angelo, Texas, August 22.—A cablegram received here today by the parents of Earl Seely, who, with seven other American relief workers, have been besieged by the Turks at Adana, Asia Minor, declared that the party was now safe. The cablegram was filed at Atlanta, but the date of filing was not given.

THREE RESIDENCES DAMAGED BY FLAMES

The roofs of three dwellings were damaged by fire during Sunday, said to have been caused by sparks from chimneys. The fire department answered four alarms, one of which proved to be false. The dwelling owned and occupied by Mrs. Mitchell, at 301 Peters street, was probably the most damaged of any. A negro dwelling in the rear of 225 Butler street, and also a residence at 59 Tift street, were slightly damaged.

WOMEN—AS WIVES

The Woman Who Is Suspicious

By FRANCES McDONALD.

BY FRANCES McDONALD.

She is the sort of woman who can always tell when her husband is going to tell a lie. The sort that husbands deceive in self-defense. "She would never believe it even if I told her," is the poor man's mental cry. And so some sort of story is concocted for each occasion—and once in a while retribution is temporarily asserted. Temporarily, for sooner or later someone happens along with the real story. And THEN!

And what is the use of it all? Why should one adult stand guard over the other—defying the truth to out? What does it profit a lady to know when her lord and master is about to utter a falsehood? And where the wisdom of allowing him to know that his words are doubted or his behavior questioned? The saddest part of such situations is that suspicious ladies always marry such harmless sort of fellows. About the worst dissipation John eye knows is a surreptitious crap game with the shipping clerk. But it's the guilty face that he brings home which is his undoing. To be sure, he has squandered four dollars—but he looks as if he had forged Billy Sunday's name to a wine check. And immediately the lady who knows—KNOWS! Even the way he hangs up his hat proclaims he's been up to something. And the silence buzzing around him seems ominous. And so the unhappy man clears his throat and tells it. And of COURSE she knows. So would you or I or anyone know. But the thing she does not know is what he HAS been up to. And her imagination supplies all the details till she pictures herself a foolish woman to continue to live with such a brute and only succeeds in wasting their money, wrecking their homes. Then she looks at the whole crew—deceiving their wives, wrecking their homes, and broken. He doesn't feel much like eating. Plain proof to any woman that he's been eating a

FORMER SERVICE MEN PREY FOR SWINDLERS

Evidence Shows "Sucker List" Manipulators Class Them as "Easy Marks."

Washington, August 22.—Are ex-soldiers and sailors as a class "easy marks" for swindlers? The eyes of unscrupulous promoters? Evidence collected by government departments and other agencies here would seem to indicate that they are so classified by the "sucker list" manipulators. Right on the heels of the exposures of the activities of certain war risk insurance bureau employees, a stand charged with having fleeced disabled men out of compensation due them by the government, comes the report that a large number of ex-soldiers have parted with their hard-earned Liberty bonds in exchange for flossy stock certificates issued by various pseudo oil and mining adventures. Later they find that while the stock certificates are as pretty as French currency and girls, they are worth far less than either of those estimable commodities appeared to be. Usually, too, the promoter has "parted" without a forwarding address.

The reason for this scheme of fleecing seems to be that the average ex-soldier, while in the demobilization, while possessing only the $60 "bonus" and whatever back pay was due him, was more than well supplied with Liberty bonds. These he had paid for month by month out of his pay, and he found and had usually forgotten all about them until the time for his discharge. In the United States when the bonds, paid for at par value, were handed over to him.

Being in need of ready cash for a civilian outfit, he generally sold to sell his bonds only to find that the bond for which he had paid $100 in installments of $5 or $10 would bring him only $85 at the hands of a bond buyer. And then it was that the tempter got in his dirty work.

"Ya see, Jack," his line of argument would run, "those bonds ain't worth what you paid for 'em while you was in the army. But we'll take 'em at their full face value in exchange for these stock certificates of ours—things what'll pay you 20 per cent dividends instead of the measly four and a quarter you get from the bonds if you hold 'em."

And the ex-soldier or sailor naturally fell. The promoter was often an ex-soldier man himself, or if he wasn't he at least spoke the ex-soldier man's language—a thing which the elderly savings banker, with his financial technicality of language and his advice on "thrift" and glittering promises of 3 per cent interest, does not. This "bud" of his was going to let him in on a good thing, after the manner government had turned him loose into the world with bonds that were worth less than he paid for them.

He had never wanted those bonds anyway; in many cases his company commander or top sergeant had practically "held" him up to subscribe for them "to make a 100 per cent showing for the outfit"—in reality, to cut down the amount of "bonuses" available for the heads of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations, and urged them to speed the gospel of holding onto bonds. But it seems that the promoters are banking on the "fifty-try-anything-once" spirit that made the American soldier such a "fightin' fool" in action to carry their questionable ventures "over the top" for them, and that thus far they have reached their objectives on pretty nearly scheduled time.

Another scheme evolved to separate money from ex-soldier men is in use in wounded men exclusively. Those men are entitled to an engraved certificate issued by the war department, setting forth the battle and location in which they were wounded, and so forth. The promoter offers them through the mail a beautiful "official" frame to put the certificate in—a fine abutment of our common sense. The frame, of course, sells for $5 and could be duplicated in any home-town picture shop for about $1.

6 PERSONS KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE BUS

Camden, N. J., August 22.—A Pennsylvania railroad electric train struck an automobile bus containing fifteen persons here tonight, killing six of the occupants of the vehicle and injuring at least four others.

The bus was carrying passengers to Fairview, a suburb. It had halted while a steam train passed south. The driver of the bus, it is said, evidently mistook the waving of a flag by the crossing watchman as a signal to proceed and started across the tracks just as an electric train came rushing north. The bus was struck squarely in the middle. An eighteen-year-old girl and two babies were tossed into the railroad station at the crossing and were dead when picked up. Two men and a woman also were killed. The injured were taken to Cooper hospital, where it was said they would recover.

A Woman Doctor.

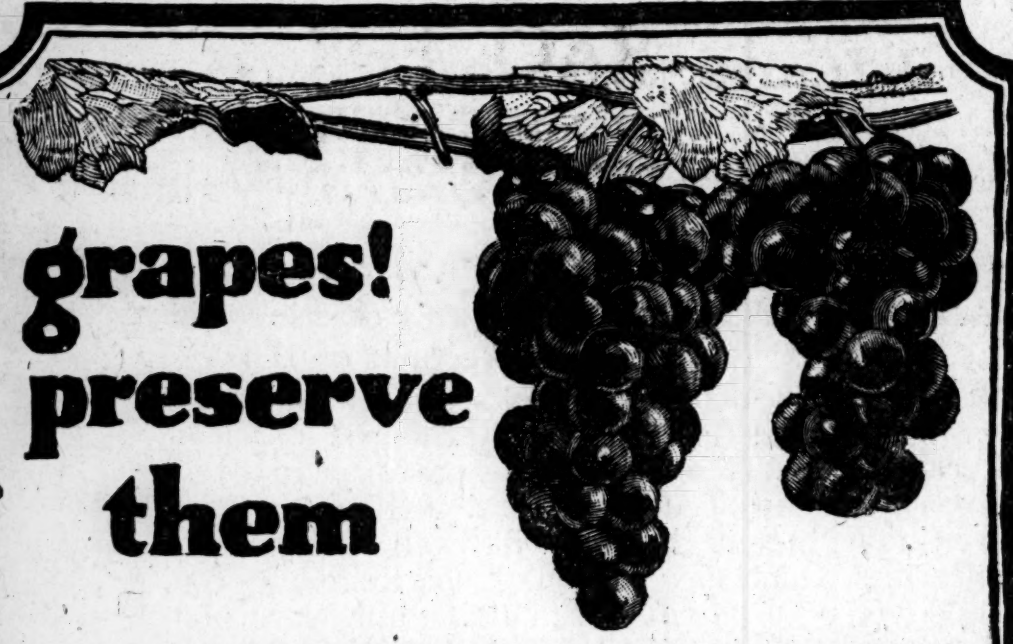

"Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood." This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely on thousands of drops from RODARK'S Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal healthy condition, it would cause many girls from which they suffer to disappear, so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.—(Adv.)

Atlanta's First Daylight Factory

Will Employ 600 Operatives

Couch Cotton Mills, Inc., Is Building an Addition That Will Cover Nearly Three Acres of Floor Space, and That Will Be the Last Word in Modern Factory Buildings—Cafeteria, Rest Room, First Aid Room With Trained Nurses Always in Attendance, Refrigeration System for Keeping the Water Pure and at the Right Temperature, Recreation Park and Many other Advantages Have Been Provided for the 600 Operatives Who Will Be Employed in the Big Building.

"Do you know what has made Atlanta great?" asked a man on a Peachtree car a few mornings ago.

He wasn't talking to me, but I overheard the conversation and couldn't resist the temptation to listen in. The gentleman to whom he was talking had a vague idea that it has been the banks of which Atlanta is so justly proud; another man had an idea that it had been Atlanta's mercantile business; still another gentleman, getting interested, thought it had been Atlanta's schools and colleges, and maybe our grand opera season has helped things along.

"You're all wrong," said the man who had first spoken. "It has been the industrial leaders of Atlanta who have made the city what it is—at any rate, they have kept the wheels turning round with an ever-increasing speed, while the things you fellows are talking about kept the bearings from getting hot."

Take a Ride Out East Point Way.

"Now, if you fellows believe I don't know what I'm talking about," said the gentleman who had started the conversation, "you just take a street car ride out East Point way—or if you've got an automobile, go in your own car. The streets are good."

Atlanta's New Daylight Factory.

"Why," he continued, "the Couch Cotton Mills is building a new addition that will stack up with any daylight factory that Henry Ford or anybody else has built anywhere in this country. You haven't seen it? Well, it's not quite complete yet, but when it is finished, as it will be in the very near future, you certainly want to take a trip out to see it."

A New Addition, Simply.

"I thought the Couch Cotton Mills had been in operation for several years," said one of the gentlemen, who was listening to the conversation. "They have been," said the first, "and they've been making goods day and night at that, but this building I'm telling you about is an addition which they are building to their present factories."

Will Cover Three Acres.

"Why, the new addition being built will cover nearly three acres of floor space, and every foot of that floor space is going to be hardwood, too, let me tell you. The building itself will be all-steel and concrete, the last word in modern factory construction. When you look at it from a distance, however, it looks like a glass house—there are so many large windows. It has been built so the daylight can all get in."

The story which this gentleman told of the new addition being built at the Couch Mills in East Point was so interesting that I decided I would take a trip out to the factory and see for myself just what he meant when he said it was going to be "Atlanta's daylight factory."

What the Building Really Is.

I found the building to be just what my informant had told me it was. A magnificent structure, nearing completion, that sets a pace for Atlanta's industrial leaders to follow. The building, I found from talking to Mr. W. D. Couch, head of the Couch Cotton Mills, was designed by Mr. L. J. Powers, of Waterloo, Iowa, one of the country's most successful textile manufacturers, who will, when the building is completed, be associated in the management of the mills.

Mr. Powers went to the large industrial centers of the country, Detroit and Dayton, Cleveland and Indianapolis, for the purpose of studying the best and most modern constructed buildings that had been built for manufacturing purposes, and this building is the composite result of the best which he saw while he was away on the trip. The best features of the factory buildings when Mr. Powers visited have been incorporated in this new addition to the Couch Mills, and during the construction of the building Mr. Powers has supervised its details, placing his eighteen years of experience in modern manufacturing at the disposal of the architects and builders. Arthur Tufts Company, one of the country's foremost engineering and construction organizations, is erecting the big new building.

Every Modern Convenience.

Every modern convenience has been incorporated into the building of this daylight factory. In addition to capturing all the daylight that the sun gives forth, the building has been equipped with the most modern ventilating devices, making it possible to always have a steady flow of fresh air in every part of the building; a refrigeration plant has been installed which will provide a constant and sanitary supply of drinking water, always at the right temperature; high speed electric elevators will carry the operatives from one floor to the others; a rest room, with first aid room, in which highly trained nurses will be on duty, has been provided for; one of the country's most handsomely finished and best equipped cafeterias will be maintained on the first floor for the operatives; use exclusively; every employee will be furnished with a steel locker for clothing and valuables, and on the ground surrounding the building a beautifully laid-off recreation park will be maintained.

Nothing Left Undone.

In short, nothing has been left undone to make the working conditions of the operatives who will be employed in this building just as pleasant and as healthful as it is possible to make them. Many other factories have one or two of these features which have been incorporated into the new addition being built at the Couch Mills, in East Point, but nowhere have I seen so many features designed to make working hours pleasant for those who are employed in the factory's operation.

600 Operatives Required.

This big addition alone will require six hundred operatives to keep the work going. And the machinery world has been combed to secure the very latest type of machinery for the saving of labor. On account of the large amount of automatic machinery that will be installed, the work of the operatives will be principally one of supervision—looking after their machines to see that they keep running. There won't be much actual work that any of the six hundred employees will have to perform.

The Big Mill Itself.

Although this daylight factory has been built so that it is practically fire-proof, automatic sprinklers have been installed, and in addition, the latest and most modern type of fire escapes have been placed on the outside of the building.

The Products of the Mill.

The Couch Mills are now manufacturing high-grade work shirts, trousers for both sportsmen and workmen, their celebrated "SUIT ALLS"—one-piece suits for mechanics and others, leggings and similar goods.

The products of these mills have a national distribution already and with the new addition's product added, one may expect to find the products of the Couch Cotton Mills in every corner of the country. The value of the products to be manufactured in the big new addition alone will run well over six million dollars annually.

Away From the City's Noise.

The plant of the Couch Cotton Mills is located, as stated before, at East Point, with a seven-minute car schedule, and the completion of the new addition about which I have told you will furnish hundreds of young ladies in Atlanta with an opportunity to find pleasant work, out where the city's noise and smoke play no part, and in a plant where every device that can be devised for the comfort of the operatives has been installed.

The Things That Have Made Atlanta.

And now that I have seen the big new daylight factory, the new addition to the Couch Cotton Mills, at East Point, I must confess that I believe the man who started the conversation on the Peachtree car a few mornings ago was right when he said that Atlanta's industrial leaders have played the major part in the building of Georgia's capital city.

If you have any doubt about it, or any doubt as to the part Atlanta's industrial leaders are going to play in the future growth of Atlanta, let me suggest that you, too, take a trip to East Point and go through the big new plant that I have described.
